DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-4 are drawn to an authentication time-variant code wherein shape, position, tone, brightness of code pattern vary according to time, classified in class 348, subclass 130.
  - II. Claims 5-11 are drawn to a system comprising a handheld having a displaying apparatus and a reader, classified in class 455, subclass 456.6.
  - III. Claims 12 and 13 are drawn to a method comprising using a camera or optical sensor and decoding, classified in class 358, subclass 1.1.
  - IV. Claims 14 and 15, drawn to a method for displaying comprising steps of determining static codes and codifying the time-variant code, classified in class 705, subclass 411.
  - V. Claims 16-17 are drawn to a method for displaying authentication and reading the code comprising decoding step and re-sending step, classified in class 712, subclass 210.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Claim 1 completely differs from all other independent claims because there fails to specify whether it is a method, apparatus, system, or computer readable medium. Claim 5 mainly limits a system that comprises a device which is a handheld and a reader. Claims 12 and 13 recite a method for reading in the preamble but includes the use of a camera (device) or optical sensor and decoding steps. This is unclear whether claims 12 and 13 was meant to be a method claim or device/apparatus/system claim and whether decoding is to be able to read code and using a camera or optical sensor to decode and to read. Although claims 14-17 recites a method for displaying authentication time-variant code in the preamble but the body does not claim or remotely relates to displaying as in the preamble. Claims 14 and 15 includes determining the static codes and codifying whereas claim 16 performs decoding and re-sending the source information of the time-variant code. Although the claimed invention for claims 1-17 is unclear, it is clear there are multiple distinct inventions.

2. Inventions I through V is related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because claim 1 recites shape, position, tone, brightness of code pattern vary according to time. The subcombination has separate utility such as a handheld, reader, camera, decoding, and codifying the time-variant code.

The examiner has required restriction between combination and subcombination inventions. Where applicant elects a subcombination, and claims thereto are subsequently found allowable, any claim(s) depending from or otherwise requiring all the limitations of the allowable subcombination will be examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. See MPEP § 821.04(a). Applicant is advised that if any claim presented in a continuation or divisional application is anticipated by, or includes all the limitations of, a claim that is allowable in the present application, such claim may be subject to provisional statutory and/or nonstatutory double patenting rejections over the claims of the instant application.

3. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
